At the Cover Shoot

On a gray day in N.Y.C., Salma Hayek keeps it colorful in the photo studio

SOUL SISTER

Our cover girl requested soothing, "loungy" music, so the playlist included classics by Al Green, Aretha Franklin and the Temptations.

POSE WORTHY

"She's that rare combination of beauty, talent and intelligence," says makeup pro Kristofer Buckle of the star, here in Donna Karan.

RAINBOW BRIGHT

"We had dresses in every color," says stylist Isabel Dupré. "Salma looked very decadent and very sexy in them."

YOU ASKED, SALMA ANSWERED!

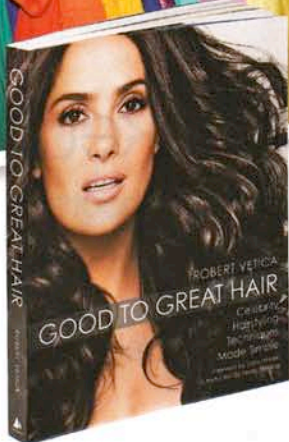

Q If you could have any superpower, what would it be?

—KRystal Ruffo, Hicksville, N.Y.

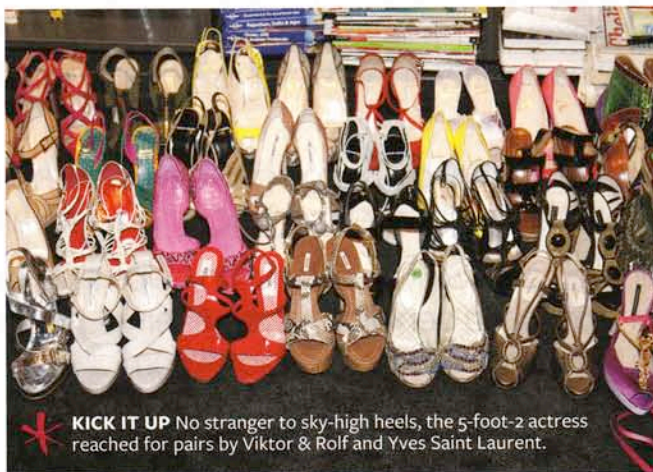

A "That's a wonderful question!" says Hayek. "I would make it so people are kind to one another. I stole that answer from one of my friends!"

STYLING TRICKS

After blow-drying Hayek's hair, Vetica applied Moroccanoil ($39; moroccanoil.com for salons) for extra shine. Between shots, he dabbed Pureology Holdfast ($20; pureology.com for salons) on her roots to tame loose pieces.

BOOK IT "This book is for everyone, even my mom!" Hayek said after seeing a copy of hairstylist Robert Vetica's Good to Great Hair ($25; amazon.com) for the first time at our shoot. "I was so happy to write the foreword." Part of the profits will benefit the U.S. Fund for Unicef and its initiative to provide tetanus vaccines to newborns.

KICK IT UP No stranger to sky-high heels, the 5-foot-2 actress reached for pairs by Viktor & Rolf and Yves Saint Laurent.
